Look upon your mystic face at even
Attendant the golden chambers of the west
When ever-changing glories of the heaven
Build up a broken splendour in thy breast

Low Tide

"And the tawny river-dogs
Shepherding the branded logs
Bind and heave with cadenced cry"

ARCHIBALD LAMPMAN

And sweetly I am here,
Shut the silent arms
Of the uncertain net-veils
With a slow, unwilling motion.

ON THE BRIDGE AT BROUZE

Oh, too long tarryings make a weary way!

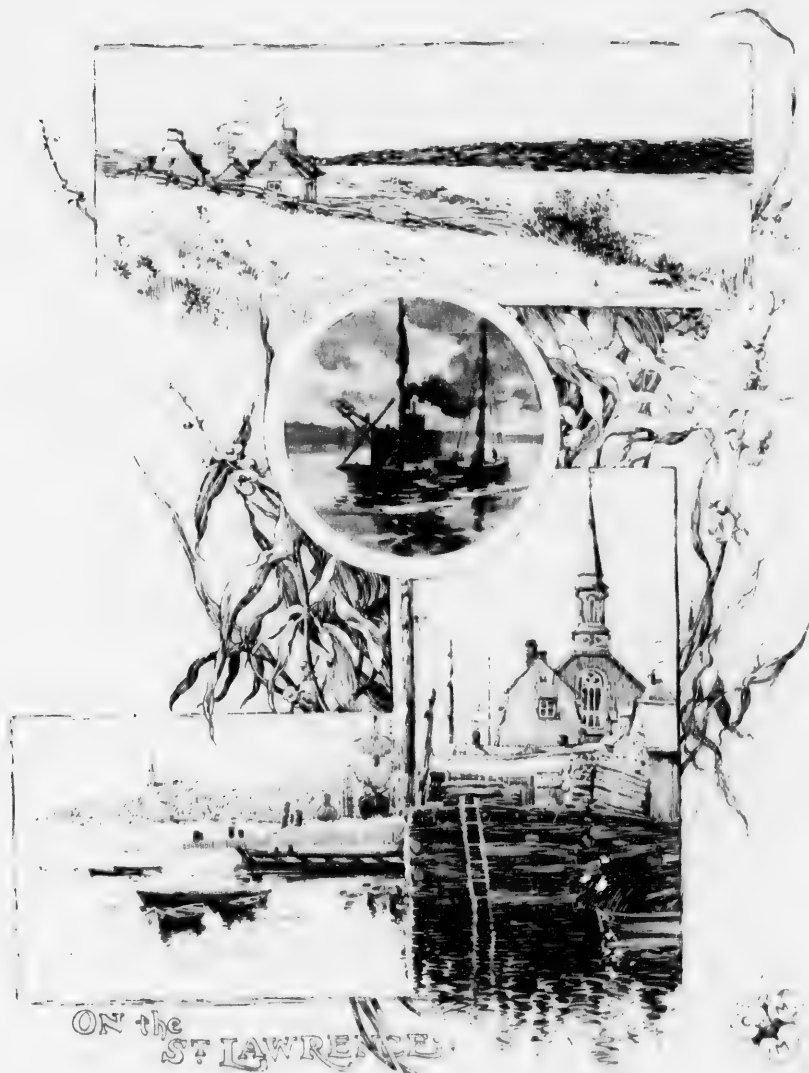

Roberts

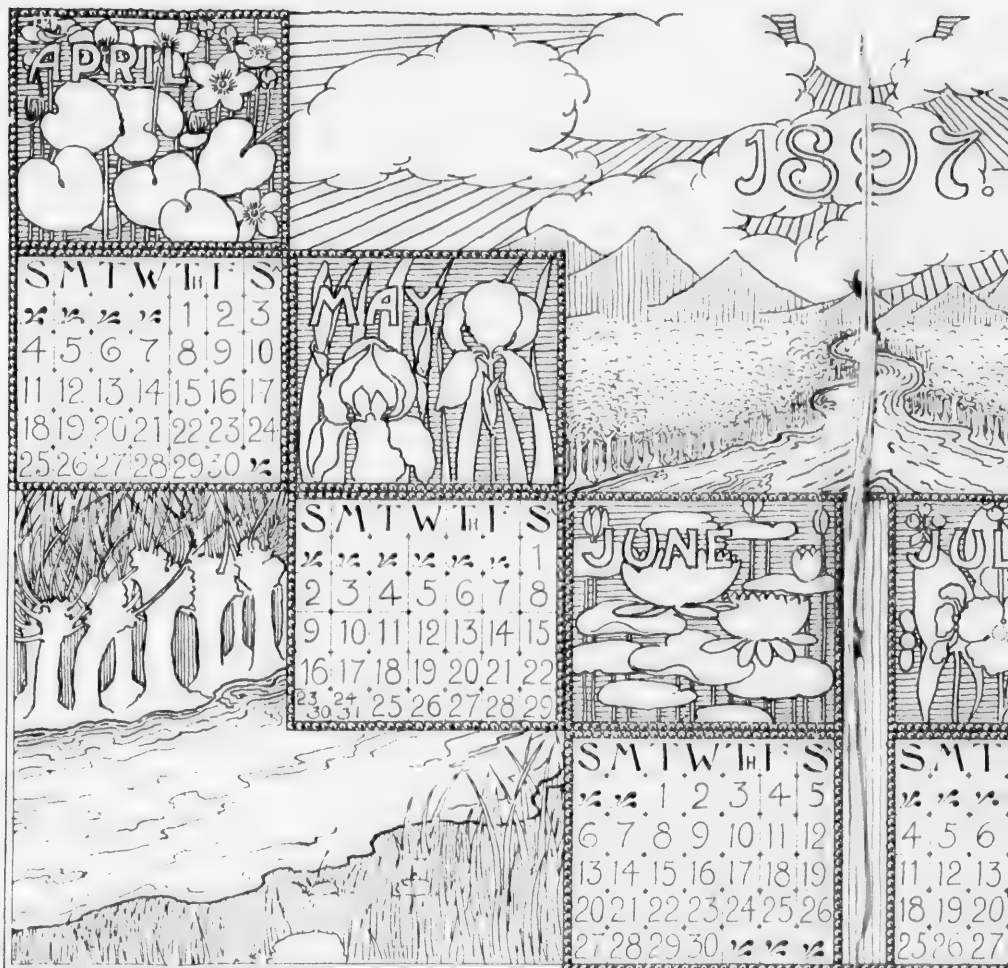

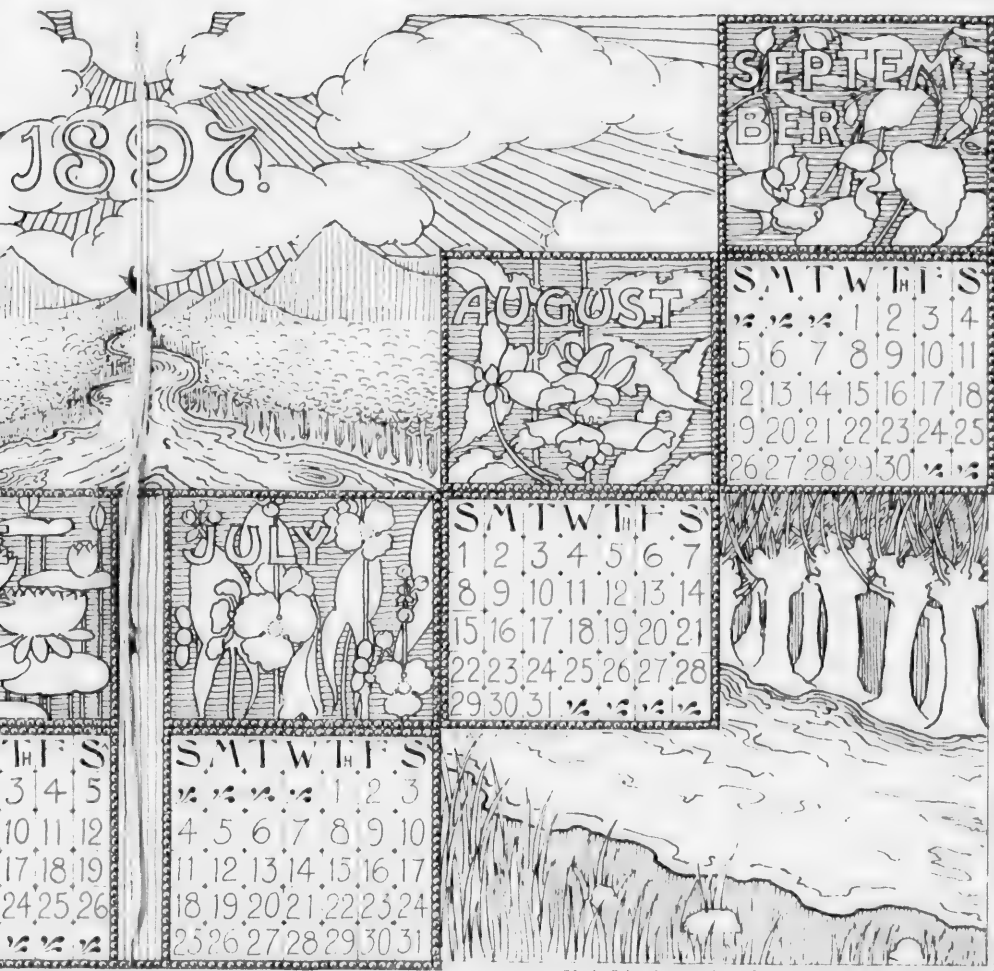

Sheer away
To the misty line of light,
Where the Forest and the Stream
In the shadow meet and plight
Like a dream

ON the
ST. LAWRENCE.

Here Nature holds her Carnival of Isles.
Steeped in warm sunlight
all the merry day."

AN OLD COUNTRY

There are miles and miles of waters
That throb like a woman's breast
With a glad harmonious motion.
Like happiness caught at rest;

W. W. Campbell.

Domed with the azure of heaven,
Floored with a pavement of pearl.
Clothed all about with a brightness
Soft as the eyes of a girl,

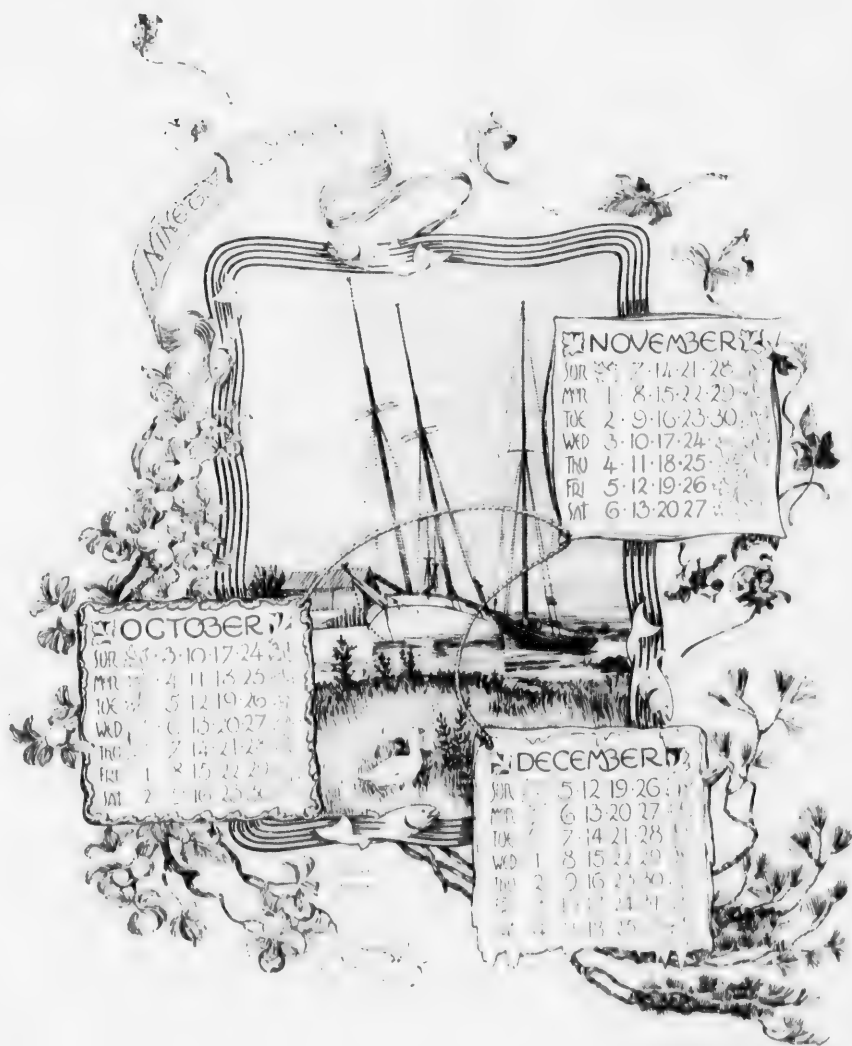

Girt with a magical girdle,
Rimmed with a vapor of rest.
These are the inland waters,
These are the lakes of the West.
W. W. Campbell

Through crests of the hoarse tide swing,
Clove sheer the sweep of her bow;
There was loosed the ice-roaring of spring,
From the jaws of her prow, —
Of the long red swan full wing, the long red swan full wing.
